

THE PALATKA NEWS

NEW SERIES VOL. XV, NO. 6.

PALATKA, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1907.

$1. Per Year.

We Must Have FLOOR SPACE

On which to display the mammoth stock of Spring Clothing which will begin to arrive on February 1st.

Winter Weight Clothes

at a slight margin above New York Manufacturer's Cost.

This means Stylish, Hand-Tailored, Elegantly Finished Suits of the Most Desirable Fabrics for Everybody.

There isn't a shop worn or shoddy garment in this store.

By reason of this reduction on this season's clothing every man and youth in Putnam County can with a new suit and have the satisfaction of knowing that he is as well dressed as the best of them.

In this store are the Clothes you'll see worn today in big cities by men who know what style is—who set the style. The illustrations show some of the advance models—genuine Schloss or Kirschbaum suits; medium length, semi-formfitting, splendid examples of good taste and good fashion.

They are not too extreme and not too staid; you will find them as good style a year from now as today. They are some among our many attractive Clothes—models for gentlemen. Come in and see them all.

Remember, this sale is no closing out of dusty, shop worn garments of antiquated style, but a sale of 1906-07 Winter Goods.

There will be no band accompaniment with this sale. We are depending alone on the High Quality of the Goods and the real, substantial reduction in Price at which we offer them.

BALTIMORE - NEW YORK

LAKE COMO.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cockcroft arrived safely, and their many friends are glad to see them.

Miss Brooks, who has been the guest of Miss Jane Morse, has left for her northern home.

John Garness received a fine boat last week.

Mr. Wheeler's launch arrived Saturday in such a battered and broken condition that Mr. Wheeler refused to accept it.

A picnic was held on the Salad-dan-a-lab island Saturday by the people of Como. Quite a crowd were out, and all report a fine time, and did justice to the good things placed before them.

Rev. Davis left last week to attend conference.

Praise and Bible Study service was held at Baptist church, Sunday afternoon.

Services were held in the M. E. church Sunday a. m. Rev. Hobbs of Pomona officiated in the absence of the pastor.

Junior Christian Endeavor meeting was held Sunday afternoon in the M. E. church. Epworth League meeting was held in the evening.

CARLETON COLONY.

Mrs. Langewich has been sick for the past two weeks.

James Fields is now carrying the mail from Carleton to Edgar and is also expressman.

Dr. and Mrs. Wharton have taken possession of the new boarding house and have already a number of guests.

Mr. Langewich has his new residence completed and neatly painted.

The beautiful residence of the Saxon family is nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy. It will be one of the very best residences in the colony.

C. E. Seofield has his house finished and is occupying the same.

The new arrivals during the past week at Carleton Colony were: Mr. Miles Fowler of Oklahoma and Mrs. Amy Rosecrans of St. Paul, Minn., a sister of Mr. Fowler. The latter has purchased the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton and will take possession of the same in the near future. Mr. Fowler and Mrs. Rosecrans are highly elated with the surroundings of Carleton Colony, and the delightful climate of Florida.

We also note with great pleasure the advent of Mrs. F. M. Worden of Potomac, Michigan, who is a near relative of our Postmaster T. B. Hoffman, who came last Saturday. We extend to these good people a most hearty welcome as they are just the kind of citizens who represent the best people from their native states.—H. M. S.

ARE YOU RESTLESS AT NIGHT.

And harassed by a bad cough? Use Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It will secure you sound sleep and effect a prompt and radical cure. Sold by Ackerman-Stewart Drug Co.

LATE STATE NEWS.

Madam Emma Eames will sing in Jacksonville February the 27th.

Jacksonville is to have another hotel. The structure will probably be thirteen stories.

About 50,000 boxes are reported to have been burned by a forest fire in a turpentine tract on Deep creek last week.

The pledges secured for the new building for the Y. M. C. A. at Jacksonville have passed the $25,000 mark.

Henry W. Day has been sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Albert B. Wrenn, by Judge Minor S. Jones at Tampa.

The first car load of celery this season was shipped from Sanford last Saturday. The crop is expected to reach six hundred cars.

The office of the New York Life Insurance company at Jacksonville will be discontinued and moved to Savannah about the first of March.

J. D. Mullaney, the new manager for the Jacksonville baseball club, has arrived in that city. He claims to have selected a strong team and it is to be hoped that he is correct.

The merchants of Gainesville claim that they can no longer keep their places of business open after sunset owing to the exorbitant rates charged by a lighting corporation which has a monopoly on both gas and electric lights.

Congressman Clark has appointed William Towne Appleyard of Lake City, as principal nominee, and Meinhard Harris Myerson of Jacksonville, as first alternate for midshipman at the naval academy at Annapolis, Md.

Gainesville wants a union depot. As a result of the petition from her Board of Trade to the Florida Railroad Commission, Hons. R. Hudson Burr, N. A. Bletcher and J. A. Morgan visited Gainesville this week to investigate her claims.

The Tampa Evening News, which was a consolidation of the Tampa Herald and the Tampa Globe, has been purchased by a company known as the Evening News Publishing Company, application for letters patent for which has been duly made.

On February 11 a joint meeting of the Church club of Jacksonville and the Florida Alumni Association of the University of the South will be held. The Rt. Rev. C. K. Nelson of Georgia and Mr. B. Lawton Wiggins, vice chancellor of the university, will deliver addresses.

Maj. Geo. P. Healy, a well known citizen of this state, has filed in the clerk's office of the U. S. court at Jacksonville petitions and schedules in bankruptcy. Petition claims to own real estate in Volusia county valued at $70; that he was wearing apparel and ornaments valued at $150 and other assets worth $200, also exempted property valued at $500. Total liabilities $5,000; total assets $1,620.

Orders have been issued directing the removal of the office of the division engineer of the Seaboard Air Line railway from Savannah to Jacksonville. Engineer Bagwell will go to the Florida city with a force of six men. He exercises jurisdiction over the engineering works of the Seaboard from Columbia to Tampa and from Savannah to Montgomery. The removal is to be made as soon as possible.

Rev. James P. DePass, a member of the Florida Methodist Conference for the past forty years, and one of the best-known ministers of the Gospel in the state, expired at 9 o'clock last Wednesday morning at the residence of Dr. James M. Jackson, in Miami, from cerebral hemorrhage, without fully regaining consciousness at any time after the attack, which completely paralyzed his limbs from the waist down and the left arm.

The New York Packer says: "The top price so far on Florida sold in this city was $7 for boxes of Deerfield grove sold at auction Tuesday. This is a pineapple orange that appeals to some fancy caterers, and they usually bid very strong for it. The bulk of the Deerfield grove set selling Tuesday brought from $1 to $5.50. In the stores there has been a fair movement of oranges this week, fancy fruit, when obtainable, selling from $3 to $4; choice from $2.50 to $3.50. To bring these prices the fruit has to be free from frost.

The term of service of J. Williford Gibson, Ph.D., pastor of the M. E. church, has come to an end, and another is awaited to take his place. Speaking of this clergyman, it is not generally known that he is a direct descendant of John Brown, the covanant minister, who was shot by the cruel Claverhouse on the doorstep of his cottage in the Highlands. He is also a relative of Sir Colin Campbell (afterward Lord Clyde), who won undying fame in the Indian mutiny. Miss Maud McKee, the grand-daughter of Lord Clyde, is now his guest.—New Smyrna Correspondent to Times-Union.

Prepare This Yourself.

For those who have any form of blood disorders, who want new, rich blood and plenty of it, try this:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. Any good pharmacy can supply the ingredients at small cost.

This is the prescription which, when made up, is called "The Vegetable Treatment," by others the "Cyclone Blood Purifier." It acts gently and certainly does wonders for some people who are sickly, weak and out of sorts, and is known to relieve serious, long-standing cases of rheumatism and chronic backache quickly.

Make some up and try it.

PAINTING UNDER A DOUBLE INSPIRATION

(Original.)

In Interlaken, at the base of the Swiss Alps, one gets a fine view of the Jungfrau raising its head, veiled with snow, in apparent close proximity. One day a girl sat before an easel endeavoring to transfer the mountain to canvas. Whether it was that she had little artistic talent or was a beginner, she did not succeed in making an imposing picture.

The girl drew back to have a look at her work, sighed and dropped her palette.

"Mademoiselle seems discouraged," said a voice behind her in French.

She turned and saw the pale face of a young man evidently in poor health.

"I only speak English," she said. "I am an American."

"Oh, an American! So am I." And he repeated what he had said in his native tongue.

"I shall never learn to paint," said the girl despondently.

"Perhaps you have been too long at work. Why not leave off and begin again in the morning when you are fresh?"

"That's a good suggestion. I began the picture in the morning."

"In that case I would certainly recommend you to work on it only before noon."

"Why?"

"Well, the mountain is under different light in the morning. Besides, usually one's best work is done in the early part of the day."

"Are you an artist?"

"I paint, but every one of an ideal temperament either paints a little or dabbles in writing verses or something of the kind."

Every morning after that the girl sat before her easel, and often the stranger, who sojourned—for his health—at the same hotel as she, strolled by, looked at her work and spoke to her about it, now and then venturing a friendly criticism. But the only words of encouragement he gave her were: "Don't work too long at one time. When your work looks unsatisfactory to you, leave it, and likely you will be better pleased with it when you have rested."

And what the stranger said proved to be true. In the morning she was surprised that she had been dissatisfied with her work of the previous day. She would sit down before her canvas, and after spending a couple of hours with her brushes it would seem that she had undone all she had achieved the previous day. Then the stranger would come along and remind her that in the morning when refreshed she would likely again see her painting under a different influence. "Go take a walk this afternoon," he said. "Paint in the morning; stroll in the afternoon."

In this way the picture grew day by day like the mountain. The darker shadows grew deeper, the lighter blending more perfectly with them or the white snow. Every morning the artist noticed some beauty that had appeared commonplace to her the night before, and finally the whole assumed a grandeur which delighted and surprised her. But she was now painting every day with the stranger beside her. There was something in his dark, dreamy eyes, his intellectual brow, his pleasant voice, his kindly sympathy, that charmed her. Then came a revelation. She was painting under the inspiration of love.

The picture was finished. The girl needed money, and the stranger advised her to take it to Paris and offer it for sale. She determined to do so, and the stranger promised to meet her there and, if possible, assist her in disposing of it. They met one morning in an art store where the picture had been sent before them. There it stood on an easel, and when the dealer joined them he said:

"As soon as I looked at the canvas I pronounced it a Demond. Demond had a picture hung last season in the salon, a Mont Blanc, which is not equal to this. Besides, the style is Demond's—coloring, tone, values, all. When I came to look at the name and saw another's I was surprised."

The girl whose work had been mistaken for that of a successful artist was delighted. A color rose to her cheek, a light to her eye; a happy smile played about her lips.

"What would the picture be worth with Demond's name on it?" asked her friend.

"Twenty thousand francs."

"And with Demond's name as collaborator?"

"In that case I would not give more than 10,000 francs for it."

On a shelf near by lay a palette and brushes. He who was befriending the girl took up a brush and, stepping to the picture, wrote under her name that of G. Demond.

The tableau that ensued was that of one quiescent figure and two who were astonished. The girl's face especially showed wonder, but at a look from her companion she refrained from speaking.

The same evening Demond stood before Miss Barker endeavoring to make her take a check for half the price of the picture.

"How did you do your work without my knowing it?" she asked.

"I advised you to walk in the afternoon, bribing the maid at the hotel to bring the canvas to my room from yours and watch for your return."

"But you seem to have done better than your piece that has been hung in the salon."

"That was because I painted under the inspiration of love."

"I thought," she replied, with averted face, "that I painted under an inspiration." GERTRUDE GOWAN.

GENERAL NEWS.

Capt. Hobson has gone to war with Japan.

The Persian assembly seems to be having a regular Ben Tillman of a time.

The Thaw jurymen have probably passed through many trials. They are all married men.

Hereditary insanity is the plea in defense of Harry K. Thaw, the murderer of Stanford White in New York.

The groundhog evidently saw his shadow on the second of February, especially in New York and Pennsylvania.

An explosion in the Thomas mine near Elkins, W. Va., last Monday resulted in the death of thirty-eight miners.

In joint session at Trenton, N. J., Tuesday the legislature chose Frank O. Griggs of Trenton, to succeed John F. Dryden in the United States senate. He received 41 out of 78 votes cast.

Mrs. Russell Sage of New York, widow of the financier, has given $1,000,000 to the Emma Willard School for Girls in Troy, N. Y. The gift was made public Monday.

The east was visited by a terrific snow storm this week. Ten inches of snow fell in New York, and the storm developed into a genuine blizzard in Philadelphia, the worst since 1899.

Caleb Powers' fourth trial for the murder of Gov. Goebel of Kentucky has been postponed. Powers has been sentenced to the penitentiary twice and given a death penalty once.

It is reported that thousands of bushels of corn are rotting on the ground along the railroad tracks in Indian Territory because the railroads cannot furnish enough cars to move it.

Eli Futch, a prominent white man near Thomasville, Ga., was taken out at night last week and given more than a hundred lashes. So severe was the whipping that Mr. Futch has hardly been able to sit or down comfortably since. A negro woman and her husband were visited the same night by the same crowd and given severe beatings.

The investigation by the senate committee on the affairs at Brownsville was begun Monday. A score of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry, discharged from the army without honor because of their alleged participation in the shooting up of the Texas town, were in attendance when the commission began its first setting.

By a vote of 110 to 85, the house Tuesday occurred in the senate amendment in the urgent deficiency bill, granting a loan of $1,000,000 to the Jamestown exposition and appropriating $65,000 for dredging necessary to complete the channel of approach to the exposition grounds and for dredging Bush creek to accommodate the needs of the life saving exhibit.

John B. McDonald of New York, the contractor who constructed the subway of that city, was elected president of the Panama Canal construction company last Tuesday. This company has been organized under the laws of New York for the purpose of building the Panama canal should the contract be awarded to W. J. Oliver, one of the contractors and his associates.

All conductors, trainmen and yardmen of the Southern railway are to receive an increase in wages aggregating between $50,000 and $400,000 a year. The advance affects hundreds of men. No flat percentage of increase in wages is given to any class of employees, the increase in every case being dependent entirely upon conditions. The increase amounts, however, from 6 per cent as the minimum to 25 per cent as the maximum.

There is a bill before the Alabama legislature which aims at the card parties that are a feature of social life. The bill mentions bridge, euchre, whist and other games, and makes it a jail offense, without alternative of fine, for any woman to allow these games to be played in her home for prizes of value. The bill has been favorably reported in the House, and despite the large number of protests, it is believed it will pass.

State Bar Association.

The convention of lawyers that had been called, assembled in the auditorium of the Jacksonville Board of Trade Tuesday and worked with the sole object in view of perfecting an organization of an association whose object, is declared in the constitution to be: "To advance the science of jurisprudence, to promote reform in the law, to facilitate the administration of justice, to uphold the standard of integrity, honor and courtesy in the legal profession, to encourage legal education, and to cultivate a spirit of cordiality and brotherhood among the members of the bar."
